General Greeley of Arctic fame is as distinguished in the social circles where he is known as in the field of polar exploration. Brave and gallant, he is a great favorite in society, but it is doubtful if he has anywhere a more ardent admirer than one small maiden to whom he stands as a knight "sans reproche."

She was the host's daughter at an afternoon reception when General Greeley was the lion of the occasion. The belles of the town were directing all their volleys of superlative and bewitching glances at the hero, who, however, ignored these enticements and asked to accompany the 12-year-old miss to the dining-room. Delighted beyond measure at this unexpected attention, the child accepted, and went proudly off, scarcely knowing whether the salad he brought her were chicken or sawdust. The crowning joy came, however, when, talking to her as if she "had been Mrs. Cleveland," to quote her own words, her companion asked how many brothers and sisters she had.

She replied: "One brother and one sister, the boy between," and added: "Some persons call us a sandwich, but I think that is rather hard on us girls, because everybody likes meat so much better than bread."

"Ah, my dear," said the general, with a bow, "not when it is so well bred."

Can any sneerer at puns drive from the maid's memory her exclusive pleasure in this one?—N. Y. Times.

The Weight of Rain.

An engineer has pointed out that one inch of rain falling upon an area of one square mile is equivalent to nearly 17,500,000 gallons, weighing 145,200,000 pounds or 72,600 tons. Assuming this water to have fallen from clouds about half a mile, or say 3,000 feet above the earth, we have for the energy represented by it about 22,000 horse power. With pumping machinery working at the low rate of consumption of two pounds of coal per horse power per hour, it would take 200 gross tons of coal to raise the water represented by one inch of rain on a square mile to the assumed distance of 3,000 feet. As a matter of fact rain often falls from clouds which are at much greater height than 3,000 feet above the ground, so that the figures just given are quite conservative ones.—Montreal Witness.

The Editor's Pass.

A penniless young lawyer boarded a train for Nashville, intending to seek employment as reporter on one of the daily newspapers. When the conductor called for his ticket, he said:

"I am on the staff of the —, of Nashville; I suppose you will pass me?"

The conductor looked at him sharply.

"The editor of that paper is in the smoker; come with me. If he identifies you, all right."

He followed the conductor into the smoker; the situation was explained; Mr. Editor said:

"Oh, yes, I recognize him as one of the staff; it is all right."

Before leaving the train the lawyer again sought the editor.

"Why did you say you recognized me? I'm not on your paper."

"I'm not the editor, either. I'm traveling on his pass, and was scared to death lest you should give me away."

Elevators in Big Buildings.

The number of people who patronize the elevators in most of the big structures can only be estimated. The Equitable building undoubtedly leads in this line. Records kept a year ago show a traffic of 38,000 passengers a day. The busy record at present is 40,000. There are thirty-two elevators in the Equitable for public use. To these fifteen men are set apart. The elevators are hydraulic. In the basement is a pumping plant large enough to supply water to a city of 100,000 inhabitants. The trip to the top is made in forty seconds, and the lift uses up 500 gallons of water. The Mills building elevators carry about 50,000 persons daily, the traffic being constant.—New York letter.

Don't Make a Mistake!

The oldest, best and cheapest furniture store in the city was established by the veteran furniture dealer and undertaker, Mr. C. E. Williams, in 1859, and is now conducted by him and his oldest son Ed. A. Williams at 611 King St. We wish to notify our patrons and the public generally that we have no connection whatever with any other furniture and undertaking establishment in Honolulu.
